

Hello!

We wanted to share the latest information on gym safety related to COVID-19. Many people are worried about the risk of disease spread in gyms and we understand. For this very reason, we were the first large fitness facility to close in the area when the pandemic began sweeping across the country in March. When we reopened in June, we had myriad safety protocols in place. We take physical distancing, cleaning, disinfecting, and screening everyone who comes into the facility seriously. We have had no cases of COVID-19 in our facility.

This infographic sums up the latest national findings from the fitness industry's trade organization, IHRSA, and MXM, a member-feedback company (data is from May 1 - August 6, 2020; source: pnewswire, September 2, 2020):

"It's become abundantly clear that the safety measures gyms, sports clubs and boutique fitness centers have in place are not only incredibly effective at keeping their membership safe, but also curbing any potential spread of COVID-19 during a time when we all need access to exercise facilities to stay healthy." -MXM CEO Blair McHaney
